Despite sufficient availability of natural resources, in Khyber Pakhtunkwa, Pakistan, constraints are faced throughout the value chain meaning growth opportunities provided by domestic and global agriculture markets cannot be capitalized. The aim of this project is to create stronger food value chains in the region and address the constraints faced by smallholder farmers and rural entrepreneurs. The project will focus on strengthening the value chain of smallholder farmers and rural entrepreneurs through a range of interventions designed to improve the competitiveness of agricultural products and services.
